Counsellors are needed to transform lives by helping students and professionals to find a suitable career and carve out a successful life for themselves

Academic excellence is a pursuit that places the majority of students in a rat race to achieve their desired grades. This makes them so engrossed in their studies that they ignore the importance of choosing a successful career path. They often discover that the degree they've chosen doesn't interest them. They become indecisive and unsure about what they want to do as a career and feel stuck. Due to many preconceived notions on various professions, most students tend to choose those jobs that are biased towards a socially acceptable profession

There are a few ambitious youngsters who would not settle for anything less in life than a career blended with job-satisfaction and challenge. They, therefore, go for offbeat careers like Wildlife Photography, Data Science or Biostatistics. This is because the world of work is changing fast

In the past, people would probably choose one career and stick to it for the rest of their lives. But today, people move between careers and jobs several times. Many jobs that did not exist five or ten years ago have emerged as most sought after career options in modern times

It is therefore time for us to approach Career Counselling differently and more respectfully. We, at ACE INSPIRE, believe in having conversations with students in which they tell their stories, rather than simply writing down answers to aptitude tests

Our multi-dimensional career counselling programme is scientific and assures 100% data privacy
