Early exposure to learning and competition builds confidence and sharpens skills which raises one's level from the others on the same platform.

Competitive examinations enhance the skill of understanding the application of concepts, which is required in a broader context when we appear for exams like Civil Services, CLAT, IELTS, TOEFL, SAT, NDA, CDS, CAT and many more.

Preparing for competitive exams helps develop IQ, logical and analytical thinking and builds a strong foundation for a career. Students start to identify their areas of interest while getting a deeper knowledge of subjects. This also opens doors to foreign universities worldwide.

Awards, rewards and scholarships not only provide financial assistance in further studies but also boost one's morale to move ahead in future. There are no drawbacks of appearing for such exams.

One of the biggest myths involving such exams is that 'Early preparations hamper regular studies'. In fact, an early step almost always prepares one to cope better with the stress and anxiety associated with these exams.

ACE INSPIRE practices discipline and rigour that ensures that students are given a platform supported by one of the best classroom teachings for future success

e' CLAT

We need good lawyers because there are bad people out there

Law has a unique selling proposition because only law graduates can adorn the offices in all three organs of the government, namely the Legislature, Executive and Judiciary.

Since 1991 India has seen vibrant changes in laws covering the whole range of financial activities in the country including industry, media, intellectual property rights, information technology and data protection.

Global spend on the legal services has increased dramatically in the last few years, impacting recruitment trends as well. If one seeks admission to National Law Schools, one must crack CLAT.

Most other law colleges offer admission through LSAT or institute specific tests. To crack these exams students should focus on studying all the components of these entrances ideally from the beginning of class XI. Only a month's time after the boards is not enough to crack such a difficult exam.

The negative marking of 0.25 from 2013 has knocked out the luck factor and only the truly deserving ones make it to the law schools. Immediately after LLB law graduates can find placements in Law Firms (Associate), MNC (Legal Officer), Government Agency, Banks, Legal Departments and Litigation

BANK with ACE INSPIRE

What is Banking Probably not what you think

Banking today is considered a niche career among students because it is a well paid, secure and high status job. Though it may appear that these jobs are specifically for commerce or economics graduates, yet, the fact remains that the majority of bank employees are from different streams of education

The all-round demand for professionals have made Public, Private and Foreign banks to recruit more and more management graduates, CAs and CFAs to enhance efficiency

B.Com graduates can get placed as sales executives for loans, mortgages and insurance with any of the leading banks. With an MBA one can even grab the position of a relationship manager. If one is interested in stocks, mutual funds, hedge funds and appreciates the pros and cons of availing personal loans and insurance policies, then it only adds to his career prospects

It is recommended that you start preparing for CAT right from college level, so that you are ready and fully prepared to clear the entrance tests to the top B schools. Of course, your technical and basic communication skills matter highly in this process of recruitment

You obviously need good communication skills and 80% to 85% marks in class XII exams. You must also be good at analysing numbers, i.e. your mathematical skill must be strong enough for you to interpret numerical data to ensure success
